"Cross Country drivers all over Britain descended on the Glanusk Estate...to sample the delights of Breconshire off roading"
Brecon and Radnor Gazette (June 2009)

Fishing

"The whole package is very special, from the beautiful estate and river to the exceptional comfort and hospitality of Penmyarth. The experience had turned out to be the epitome of what fishing means to me – and yes, I did catch fish, too"

"The river was a delight mixture of runs, eddies and glides"
Trout and Salmon (July 2009)

Festival

"an aura of intimacy and independence of spirit The Observer
a relaxed and family friendly vibe Mojo
the supremely mellow epi-center of the nu-folk scene Evening Standard of all the festivals in all the fields in Britain, probably the best field of all has been bagged by the Green Man Festival The Times

eccentricity is the beating heart of this festival The Independent

the UKs hippest festival. . .the definitive boutique festival The Guardian an indie-folk fairyland where antler-wearing Druids lead processions of children past wishing trees The Observer

a breathtaking setting The Fly
the variety of music on offer puts most other festivals to shame NME"

Polo

"Polo came to Powys on the weekend and provided a nail biting match to remember for the 2,500 spectators that had packed into the Glanusk Estate in Crickhowell to watch Wales take on South America"
Brecon and Radnor Gazette (July 2009)

Motocross

"Round five of the GBXC series provided riders and spectators with a real treat. Yet another new venue, Glanusk Park in South Wales, saw a gnarly woodland course which ran 11kms through the Glanusk Estate...as if this superb venue wasn't enough the event saw the UK debut of David Knight..."
